Payments, card by card

Every card of the payment journey, one by one, on every phone it appears on — taken from the bot's own code, word for word. Verify it with Abdul card by card; he has his own copy with only his phone.

The cast

Abdul — Lagos office manager · employee

Krishna — owner · admin 1 · gives the first approval

Musa — admin 2 · gives the last approval

Finance — the finance phone · the person who pays

The one payment everyone follows

Abdul registers his account GTBank 0123456789, then asks for ₦25,000 for Transport to Idumota, with a photo of the bill.

Krishna gives the first approval. Musa gives the last one and chooses the company account it is paid from: ZENITH — BLACK PANTHER or GTBANK — BLACK PANTHER.

The finance phone sees From and To together, transfers the money, taps ✔ Mark Done and sends the screenshot.

Separately, customer ABBA pays 50,000 into Zenith and Abdul records it (Part H).

Read down: each row is one moment. A filled box is the person who acts; an outlined box is what lands on that person's phone at that moment. The right-hand column says who everyone is waiting for next.

Set-up Set up the finance phone

Do this once, before the first payment. The finance phone is the ONE phone that pays: it gets the payment card, taps ✔ Mark Done after the bank transfer, and sends the proof. Whoever approves a payment can never pay it (the four-eyes rule) — so the finance phone must belong to someone who never approves.

1 Krishna (you)

Do: On Railway, open the bot's Variables and set `FINANCE_IDS` = the Telegram id of the person who pays. Save; the bot restarts by itself.

Use an id that never approves. If an admin's id is put here, that admin can still approve payments, but can never pay the ones they approved.

☐ done

2 Krishna (you)

Do: On the laptop, in the bot folder, run `node scripts/seed-finance-department.js` (it only shows what it would do), then `node scripts/seed-finance-department.js --commit`.

It adds the department Finance to the Departments sheet, with payments as its only activity. If the department is already there, it says so and changes nothing.

☐ done

3 Krishna (you)

Do: In the Users sheet, on the finance person's row: department = Finance, status = active, role = not admin.

Exactly one active person in Finance. With nobody (or several) there, payment cards go to all admins with a warning instead.

4 Krishna (you)

Do: Check on Telegram: open 💰 Finance → 💳 Payments on your phone, then on the finance phone.

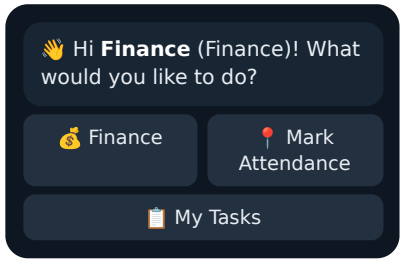

Your screen names the finance person on the line “Finance: … pays and marks done.” The finance phone's menu has 💰 Finance, and its Payments screen has the extra button “💳 Waiting for me to pay”, with the number of approved payments still to pay.

Your paying accounts — the company accounts money leaves FROM

For now they are kept by name: BANK — ACCOUNT NAME, for example ZENITH — BLACK PANTHER and GTBANK — BLACK PANTHER. The bot finds them in one of two places:

- The accounts already listed in 🏦 Manage Banks that are written as BANK — ACCOUNT NAME. A plain bank name (GTBank, Zenith …) is a bank, not a company account, and is never offered.
- Or a list typed in Settings, key `PAYMENT_SOURCE_ACCOUNTS` — one account per line. When this cell has anything in it, it is used instead of the Manage Banks list.

How many paying accounts	What happens on the last ✅ Approve
two or more	The admin giving the last approval is asked “Pay from which account?” and taps one (Part D).
exactly one	It is used without asking, and named on every card that follows.
`0` in that Settings cell	Switched off: nobody is asked, and the finance card shows only the account paid TO, as before.

Account numbers, and the QR details shown when a chip is tapped, come in a later release (your words: “polished later”). Note: because they live in the Manage Banks list, these two company accounts also appear as bank choices when someone registers an account (Part A, step 2) or records a customer payment (Part H).

A Abdul registers his bank account; two admins approve it

Once per account. A payment can only ever go to a registered account, and the number is typed twice because nothing else can check it.
